

Women Authorities of the PAIGH

Nidya María Cardoze Córdoba
(Panamá)

Panamanian recognized as one of the great geographers of the isthmus. From 1998 to 2001, she was Second Vice President of the PAIGH. She was also Vice President and President of the Panama National Section of this institute.

She succeeded in creating new bachelor's degree programs for geographers and a technical degree program in meteorology at the University of Panama. In her work "Geography Notes for High School," she emphasized that "the study of geography allows us to have global knowledge as the dwelling place of man, increase our cultural heritage, explain why certain phenomena occur on earth, and increase our love for our country."

She received awards and recognitions from the IPGH, the National Institute, and the Faculty of Humanities of the University of Panama.

"Science in the Service of Peace"